

The diagram illustrates the positions of six notes on the guitar fretboard across six strings. The notes are labeled on the left: e' (yellow), h (green), g (red), d (blue), A (orange), and E (black). The fretboard is divided into four vertical sections by grey bars. The first section shows the open strings. The second section shows fretted notes. The third section shows fretted notes with a red line connecting the g notes across the strings. The fourth section shows fretted notes. Below the diagram, the Roman numerals III and V are placed under the third and fourth sections respectively.
